Margherita assists her clients navigate a variety of high-stakes litigation matters across multiple disciplines and before many different courts and tribunals. Margherita has experience practicing before numerous state courts, federal courts, appellate level courts, and the International Trade Commission, and through all phases of a dispute—from the initial analysis, informal and often alternative-dispute resolution, and the preparation and filing of a lawsuit, through discovery and trial.

Margherita frequently represents health care providers in ERISA and managed care litigation. Margherita's health care provider clients value her experience and knowledge of a relatively niche industry, as well as her facility with health care consultants, actuaries, network experts, and other expert witnesses to aid in proving her client's case.

Margherita also has experience representing clients in the IP space, having litigated trademark infringement and Lanham Act cases as well as patent infringement matters, including Section 337 Violation Investigations before the Internal Trade Commission.

Prior to joining AFS, Margherita cut her teeth in one of the premiere bankruptcy and restructuring litigation practices in the country, having represented both debtor-side and creditor-side clients in some of the most high-stakes, consequential bankruptcies of the last several years.
