Marlo is a registered patent agent admitted to practice before the US Patent and Trademark Office since 2005. She is highly experienced in drafting and filing mechanical and life sciences patent applications for both domestic and foreign filing. Marlo also prepares domestic and foreign office action responses and other prosecution-related documents, assesses invention disclosures for freedom-to-operate and patentability, conducts due diligence, prepares freedom-to-operate and patentability opinions, and advises and educates clients regarding patent-related issues.

Prior to joining ArentFox Schiff, Marlo was a patent agent with a mid-sized law firm in Boston, MA.

Life Beyond the Law

Outside of work, Marlo is active in raising awareness and research funds for Tuberous Sclerosis Complex, a rare neurological disorder that has profoundly affected her family. In doing that, she has met with US senators and representatives to advocate for rare disease research.
